

Nichole Fanara

Author

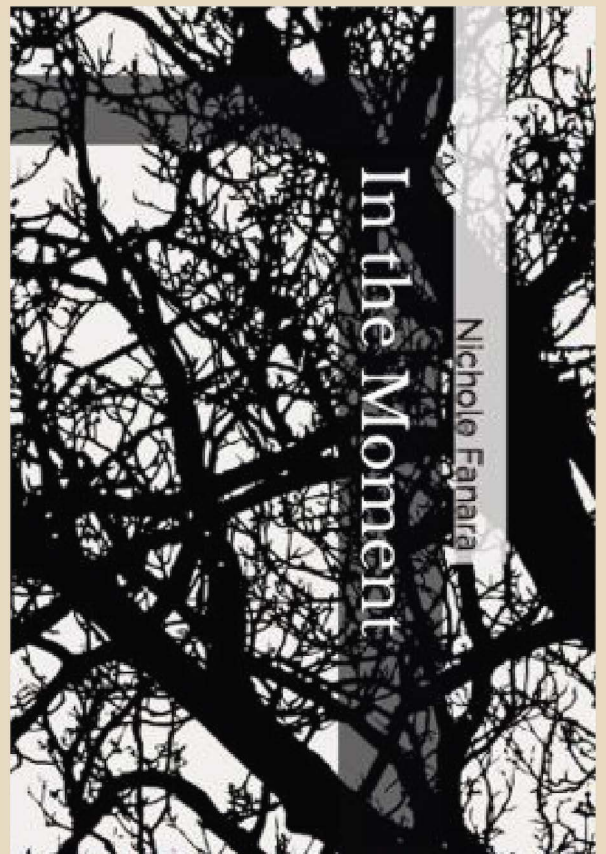

ABOUT THE BOOK

"They threw themselves into the evening rain, running...into the unknown."

From overcoming gothic nightmares, starting new romantic relationships, and searching desperately for freedom, characters grapple with their new realities in 2020 while persevering through the most difficult months of their lives. In the Moment explores the tumultuous year we endured together through fictional manifestations of our existence in isolation.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Nichole Fanara is a writer and high school teacher living in Hamilton, Ontario. She has been published in Hamilton Arts and Letters and volunteers with GritLit to help promote literacy in the city. When taking a break from collecting pineapple artefacts, Nichole choreographs and participates in local musical theatre. In the Moment is Nichole's debut book.

www.pandamoniumpublishing.com

pandapublishing8@gmail.com

905-979-4949

